

Visions and Realities

Stories from the Solomon Islands Truth and Reconciliation Commission

Louise Vella

Bachelor of Arts (La Trobe University)

A thesis submitted for the degree Doctor of Philosophy

University of New England

May 2015

Abstract

This thesis presents an in-depth qualitative case study of the Solomon Islands Truth and Reconciliation Commission (TRC) – the first truth commission in the Pacific. Proposed by civil society and church networks during the Solomon Islands conflict, known locally as ‘the tensions’, the TRC was initially envisaged as a means to prompt reconciliation and build peace during the crisis. Several years later, after the arrival of the Regional Assistance Mission to Solomon Islands (RAMSI) and the restoration of law and order, the Truth and Reconciliation Commission Act 2008 was passed in parliament and the TRC was established with a mandate to ‘promote national unity and reconciliation’. In February 2012, the TRC’s final report was handed to the prime minister. Despite being widely read by Solomon Islanders and others worldwide after being unofficially leaked in early 2013, it has yet to be tabled in parliament or officially released.

Truth commissions are an increasingly common tool in the post-conflict peacebuilding ‘toolkit’. They are supported by the United Nations and have been implemented in a range of contexts around the globe, on the premise that truth about the past will lead to reconciliation and peace. Yet the core premise and lengthy list of assumed benefits of truth commissions are hotly contested. It is widely agreed amongst scholars, policy makers and practitioners that greater empirical research is needed to understand how truth commissions are adopted, negotiated, contested and transformed in the range of cultural contexts in which they are implemented.

This thesis draws on interviews with former staff and stakeholders of the TRC, and my own personal experiences of working for the commission, to explore the visions and realities of the Solomon Islands TRC. It draws attention to the challenges of translating and pursuing ‘truth’ and ‘reconciliation’ and describes the practical challenges and everyday realities of implementing a TRC in the Solomon Islands. It argues that in order for peacebuilding tools to be effective in Solomon Islands, a strong commitment to, and understanding of, local context is required.

While the Solomon Islands TRC was instigated locally, it was hardly an indigenous institution. Its civil society beginnings offered potential for the imported institution to be ‘hybridised’; however, it became a government responsibility and was continually influenced and guided by external sources. While the Solomon Islands TRC adequately replicated the structure and operation of a truth commission based on a globalised and placeless theory of ‘best practice’ in transitional justice, the lack of appropriate contextualisation resulted in an institution that did not fulfil its ambitious mandate nor function as a successful peacebuilding tool.

The experiences and reflections of the Solomon Islands TRC have much to offer to other countries in the region that consider implementing a truth commission. This research demonstrates that the Solomon Islands TRC had potential to positively contribute towards peacebuilding. To do so, however, it needed to respect and work with local cultures and kastoms, and be viewed and operated as an ongoing process, whereby stories collected and ‘truth’ documented would be used to address enduring injustices and grievances in order to build a sustainable peace.

Certification of Dissertation

I certify that the substance of this thesis has not already been submitted for any degree and is not currently being submitted for any other degree or qualification.

I certify that any help received in preparing this thesis and all sources used have been acknowledged in this thesis.

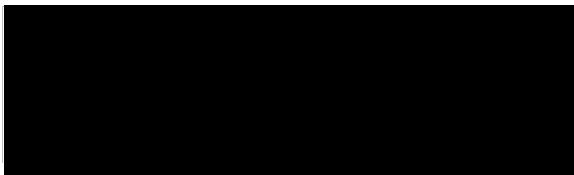

Signature

4/5/2015

Signature of Candidate

Date

4/5/2015

Signature of Supervisor

Date

Acknowledgements

There are many to thank for their significant role in this PhD journey. Firstly, I would like to extend deep gratitude to my principal supervisor Dr Rebecca Spence, who has been beyond generous with her ongoing support, encouragement, faith and guidance. Her relentless positivity, care, and professional supervision have kept me on track to complete this thesis. I also extend my sincere thanks to the supervisory support of Dr Jack Maebuta, who befriended and guided me on my educational journey even before assuming the role as one of my supervisors, and Professor Helen Ware, who has offered mentorship and guidance from the beginning.

I am indebted to the staff of the Solomon Islands Truth and Reconciliation Commission. I extend sincere gratitude to the Commissioners with whom I worked for their support of this research, in particular, Reverend Samuel Ata, Sofia Macher, Ratu Joni Madraiwiwi, Caroline Laore, and Kamilo Teke. Particular thanks also go to Dr Ludwig Huber, who supported and mentored me as I worked at the commission. Importantly, I extend sincere and heartfelt gratitude to my former colleagues at the commission, in particular to those whom I closely worked with: Daniel Fenua, Welchman Henry, Enly Saeni, Hamptan Pitu and Rex Akomae in the research team, and Veronica Esibea, Rose Lauomea, Mary Borgia and Agnes Ogami in the statement taking team, and Wendy Sade. Thank you to all the staff for welcoming me in your workplace, travelling with me to the provinces, and talking with me about your experiences of the TRC and hopes for the future. Without your stories this research would not have been possible. Tanggio tumas olketa frens.

Thank you also to the many Solomon Islanders who talked to me about their experiences during the conflict, whether as a researcher for the TRC, as a new acquaintance, or as a friend. I hope that the TRC has in some way acknowledged your experiences, and that this research acknowledges the need to be heard and justice enacted, however this is conceptualised. The friendship, welcome and warmth I have received whilst working in the Solomon Islands has been unparalleled in my lifetime. The unforgettable experiences, values and lessons I have learnt during these times extend far beyond the contents of this thesis.

A number of other people, organisations, and government departments have provided invaluable support to this research. Thank you to the Solomon Islands Ministry of Education for permitting the research, and the Solomon Islands Truth and Reconciliation Commission for supporting this topic and line of inquiry. Thank you also to the University of New England for ongoing and incidental scholarship support. During my candidature I was able to be a visiting student at the State, Society and Governance in Melanesia program at the Australian National University. Thank you to Dr Matthew Allen for welcoming and hosting me, and for all the SSGM staffs and students for many hours of inspiring and encouraging conversations in the corridors and coffee shops. In Canberra, Melbourne and Honiara I have also benefited from the support, friendship and ongoing conversations of a number of other students and academics. Thank you Dr Rebecca Monson, Joseph Foukona, Ashley Greenwood, Dr Pyone Myat Thu and Nicole Dicker for sharing your experiences of your own scholarly adventures and providing a safe space in which no question was too silly. I also thank Dr Janene Carey for editorial assistance with this thesis, which took the form of formatting, copyediting and proofreading, as specified in Standards D and E of the Australian Standards for Editing Practice.

Finally, thank you to my family for their unconditional support, understanding and patience throughout this journey. Thank you to Mum, Dad and Gerard for providing endless encouragement, support and love.

Dedication

This thesis is dedicated to those who suffered, endured, and survived the 1998–2003 conflict in Solomon Islands.

This thesis is also dedicated to my friends and colleagues who worked with or at the Solomon Islands Truth and Reconciliation Commission. Whether in the field or in the office, your hard work and dedication has contributed to peacebuilding in your beautiful, multicultural nation.

Publications by the candidate relevant to this thesis

- Vella, L. 2011. "Intuition and Congruence: Researching Peace in Melanesia." Action Learning Action Research Journal 17(2):72–89.
- Vella, L. 2014a. "'What Will You Do with Our Stories?' Truth and Reconciliation in the Solomon Islands." International Journal of Conflict and Violence 8(1):91–103.
- Vella, L. 2014b. "Translating Transitional Justice: The Solomon Islands Truth and Reconciliation Commission." SSGM Discussion Paper 2014/2. Canberra: State, Society and Governance in Melanesia Program, Australian National University.

Table of Contents

ABSTRACT	I
CERTIFICATION OF DISSERTATION	III
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS	V
DEDICATION	VII
PUBLICATIONS BY THE CANDIDATE RELEVANT TO THIS THESIS	IX
TABLE OF CONTENTS	XI
LIST OF FIGURES.....	XV
LIST OF TABLES.....	XVII
ACRONYMS	XIX
1. INTRODUCTION	1
1.1 ESTABLISHING CONTEXT AND RATIONALE FOR THE RESEARCH.....	3
1.2 AIM AND SCOPE OF RESEARCH	9
1.3 STRUCTURE OF THESIS	13
2. THEORETICAL BACKGROUND AND LITERATURE REVIEW	19
2.1 INTRODUCTION	19
2.2 PEACEBUILDING: AN OVERVIEW	20
2.3 TRANSITIONAL JUSTICE	24
2.4 TRUTH COMMISSIONS.....	28
2.4.1 Clarifying truth	32
2.4.2 Truth commissions in practice	33
2.5 POST-CONFLICT PEACEBUILDING, RECONCILIATION AND TRUTH.....	33
2.5.1 The relationship between peace and reconciliation	35
2.5.2 Does truth lead to reconciliation?	35
2.5.3 Clarifying reconciliation	36
2.5.4 One part of the process	38
2.6 LOCALISING PEACE AND TRANSITIONAL JUSTICE	39
2.7 RESEARCH QUESTIONS AND CONCLUSION	42
3. METHODOLOGY: DEVELOPING AN ETHICAL APPROACH TO PEACE RESEARCH IN MELANESIA.....	45
3.1 INTRODUCTION	45
3.2 BACKGROUND TO THE RESEARCH PROJECT	45

3.2.1	Developing the research project	48
3.2.2	Reflecting on and integrating lived practice	50
3.3	THEORETICAL FRAMEWORKS AND RESEARCH APPROACH	52
3.3.1	Peace research	52
3.3.2	Pacific research and indigenous epistemologies	53
3.3.3	Practice-based, action-oriented research	59
3.4	DATA COLLECTION: RESEARCH SITE AND METHODS	60
3.4.1	Participant observation, informal observations and discussions	62
3.4.2	Interviews	66
3.4.3	Documentary analysis	71
3.4.4	Review of published literature	73
3.5	LANGUAGE AND TRANSLATIONS	73
3.6	ETHICAL MATTERS	75
3.6.1	Measures to ensure confidentiality	76
3.6.2	Ethical challenges: Power, representation and participation	77
3.7	DATA ANALYSIS, INTERPRETATION AND PRESENTATION	79
3.8	RELIABILITY, VALIDITY AND BROADER APPLICABILITY OF RESEARCH FINDINGS.....	81
3.9	CONCLUSION.....	82
4.	CONFLICT, PEACEBUILDING AND THE TRC: THE SOLOMON ISLANDS CONTEXT	85
4.1	INTRODUCTION.....	85
4.2	SOLOMON ISLANDS: CONFLICT, RECONCILIATION AND PEACE	87
4.2.1	Historical context	88
4.2.2	Contemporary context	91
4.3	TENSIONS AND CONFLICT, 1998–2003	97
4.4	PEACEBUILDING, RECONCILIATION, AND POST-CONFLICT JUSTICE	105
4.4.1	Solomon Islands Government attempts to broker peace and reconciliation	106
4.4.2	Churches and civil society	108
4.4.3	RAMSI	113
4.5	TRANSITIONAL JUSTICE AND POST-CONFLICT CHALLENGES IN SOLOMON ISLANDS.....	116
4.5.1	Fragile localised systems of justice	118
4.5.2	Localised conflict dynamics	120
4.5.3	Ongoing drivers of conflict	121
4.5.4	Widespread and unaddressed psychosocial needs	123
4.5.5	Need for local champions for reconciliation and peacebuilding	124
4.6	CONCLUSION.....	125
5.	ESTABLISHING THE SOLOMON ISLANDS TRC: BACKGROUND, VISIONS AND OPERATION	127

5.1	INTRODUCTION	127
5.2	EARLY EFFORTS, VISIONS AND HOPES: A CIVIL SOCIETY APPROACH	127
5.3	ESTABLISHING THE TRC: GOVERNMENT RESPONSIBILITIES	130
5.4	TRC IN OPERATION: STARTING ON THE BACK FOOT	138
5.4.1	TRC activities	143
5.5	CONCLUSION	149
6.	INHERENT CHALLENGES: TRUTH AND RECONCILIATION	151
6.1	INTRODUCTION	151
6.2	TRUTH-SEEKING AND TRUTH-TELLING	152
6.2.1	Framing 'truth-telling'	160
6.2.2	Resistance and research fatigue	165
6.2.3	Local perspectives of truth-telling	167
6.2.4	Is talking healing?	171
6.3	RECONCILIATION	175
6.3.1	Local perspectives of reconciliation	180
6.3.2	'What will you do with our stories?' National reconciliation and the TRC	184
6.3.3	Awaiting a reconciliation program that never came	189
6.4	CONCLUSION	191
7.	AVOIDABLE CHALLENGES	195
7.1	INTRODUCTION	195
7.2	ADMINISTRATION AND MANAGEMENT	196
7.2.1	Preparation and planning	196
7.2.2	Financial administration	198
7.2.3	Stakeholders and interested parties	201
7.3	TRC PERSONNEL	204
7.3.1	Leadership	206
7.3.2	Human resources	208
7.3.3	Staff wellbeing and vicarious trauma	210
7.4	PUBLIC AWARENESS AND COMMUNICATION	212
7.4.1	Communication strategies and challenges	213
7.4.2	Limited awareness and common misconceptions	215
7.4.3	The importance of presence	219
7.5	FIELD AND OPERATIONAL CHALLENGES	220
7.5.1	Resources	220
7.5.2	Transport and logistics	221
7.5.3	Safety, security and privacy	222
7.6	WOMEN AND THE TRC	226

7.6.1	Women's engagement with the TRC	228
7.6.2	Sexual violations: Struggles to 'get' stories and read silence	235
7.7	TIMING AND TRUST	240
7.7.1	When to start?	240
7.7.2	When to finish?	241
7.8	CONCLUSION	244
8.	VENEER OF ADAPTATION: LEAVING LOCALISED PEACEBUILDING BEHIND	245
8.1	INTRODUCTION	245
8.2	RHETORIC AND REALITIES	246
8.3	VENEER OF ADAPTATION	249
8.3.1	Misplaced emphasis: Truth over reconciliation	253
8.3.2	Local ownership, participation and buy-in	255
8.3.3	Falling short	258
8.4	MOVING FORWARD: POTENTIAL OF TRCs FOR PEACEBUILDING IN MELANESIA	259
8.4.1	Recommendations for future TRCs in Melanesia	263
8.5	CONCLUSION: ONE PART OF THE PROCESS	268
	BIBLIOGRAPHY	271
	APPENDICES	293
	APPENDIX A: LIST OF INTERVIEWEES	294
	APPENDIX B: RESEARCH PERMIT (INITIAL)	298
	APPENDIX C: RESEARCH PERMIT (EXTENDED)	299
	APPENDIX D: PARTICIPANT INFORMATION SHEET	300
	APPENDIX E: PARTICIPANT CONSENT FORM	302
	APPENDIX F: HREC APPROVAL FORM	303

List of Figures

Figure 1.1 Map of south-west pacific region, demarcating Melanesia, Polynesia and Micronesia subregions.....	3
Figure 4.1 Map of Solomon Islands in south-west Pacific region.....	87
Figure 4.2 Map of Solomon Islands showing provincial boundaries.	91
Figure 5.1 Lift-out from the Solomon Star with call for nominations and frequently asked questions about the Solomon Islands TRC.....	134
Figure 5.2 Donor funds provided to the TRC.....	138
Figure 5.3 Map indicating the location and type of the TRC’s public hearings.....	144
Figure 6.1 Number of statements received by province	155
Figure 6.2 Statement takers walking between villages on the Weathercoast of Guadalcanal.	156
Figure 6.3 Statement taking staff conducting an awareness talk in Kolina village, south Guadalcanal.	158
Figure 6.4 Statement takers in Malaita visited villages on market days to take advantage of the congregation of people	159
Figure 6.5 Public hearing held in a church in Visale.....	180
Figure 6.6 Image and headline on the front page of the Solomon Star depicting reconciliation between ex-combatants at a TRC public hearing.	188
Figure 7.1 Organisational chart of the Solomon Islands TRC.....	205
Figure 7.2 Education banner produced for public awareness of the Solomon Islands Truth and Reconciliation Commission.....	214

Figure 7.3 Front page headline demonstrating anger at TRC following arrest at closed hearing in Choiseul	217
Figure 7.4 Full page ad in Solomon Star by the TRC offering an apology following the arrest at a closed hearing in Choiseul.	218
Figure 7.5 Boat travel to remote villages in East Malaita on an OBM canoe.....	221
Figure 7.6 Collecting statements in a village setting.	225
Figure 7.7 Gender composition of commissioners in several truth commissions.....	229
Figure 7.8 Gender composition of statements received in Sierra Leone, Timor-Leste, South Africa and Solomon Islands.....	230
Figure 7.9 Gender composition of public hearings	231
Figure 7.10 In-depth interviews were conducted with women around Guadalcanal, Malaita and Western Province for the case study on women for the commission’s final report.	232

List of Tables

Table 6.1 Public hearings conducted by the Solomon Islands TRC, with venue and dates .. 179

Acronyms

AusAID	Australian Agency for International Development
AVI	Australian Volunteers International
AVID	Australian Volunteers for International Development
CAVR	Comissão de Acolhimento, Verdade e Reconciliação (Commission for Reception, Truth and Reconciliation) [Timor Leste]
CSN	Civil Society Network [Solomon Islands]
CSO	Civil Society Organisation
DNURP	Department of National Unity, Reconciliation and Peace [Solomon Islands]
GLF	Guadalcanal Liberation Front
GRA	Guadalcanal Revolutionary Army
ICTJ	International Center for Transitional Justice
IFM	Isatabu Freedom Movement
IPMT	International Peace Monitoring Team
INGO	International Non-Government Organisation
ISF	International Support Facility
MEF	Malaita Eagle Force
MEHRD	Ministry of Education and Human Resource Development [Solomon Islands]
MNURP	Ministry of National Unity, Reconciliation and Peace [Solomon Islands]
MWYCA	Ministry for Women, Youth and Children's Affairs [Solomon Islands]

NPC	National Peace Council [Solomon Islands]
NGO	Non-Government Organisation
OBM	Outboard Motorised [Canoe]
PIF	Pacific Islands Forum
PIF EPG	Pacific Islands Forum Eminent Persons Group
PMC	Peace Monitoring Council
RAMSI	Regional Assistance Mission to Solomon Islands
RSIPF	Royal Solomon Islands Police Force
PNG	Papua New Guinea
PPF	Participating Police Force
SBD	Solomon Bokolo Dollar
TPA	Townsville Peace Agreement
TRC	Truth and Reconciliation Commission
TRRG	Truth and Reconciliation Reference Group
UN	United Nations
UNDP	United Nations Development Program
UNE	University of New England
UNICEF	United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund
UNSC	United Nations Security Council
YCA	Youth Challenge Australia